Ruffino's

When Ruffin Rodrigue opened Ruffino's in 1998, he wasn't chasing restaurant trends. He was chasing something deeper—a feeling. The kind you get when the lights are just right, the wine flows easily, and laughter fills the room. A place where South Louisiana could come together, raise a glass, and truly celebrate life.

That mission was born from Ruffin's own story—from digging graves with his father to playing football under the lights of Tiger Stadium. He understood how fragile life can be and how beautiful it becomes when we slow down and celebrate the moments that matter.

Today, Ruffino's is led by his wife, Alison Rodrigue, who carries the torch of Ruffin's vision with grit, grace, and a relentless drive to make every guest feel like family. Under her leadership, Ruffino's continues to evolve—but the heart remains the same.

In the words of Ruffin himself, "Whether it's the food we serve or the service we provide, our goal is to ensure a remarkable experience for our guests that will always be remembered."
